Broad Strokes:
From the Winery: The story of Produttori del Gavi is about hard work, commitment and courageous optimism.
The cooperative began back in 1951. The ability of the Produttori di Gavi to bravely face the future, knowing that today's hardships will be tomorrow's success, both for the community and the entire territory. A tale of devotion to a territory that slowly discovered its vocation, until it became fully aware of producing the best white wine of Piedmont using an exceptional variety that can enhance every nuance of its terroir of origin like no other: the Cortese grape. Today, Produttori del Gavi is one of the most important wineries in Gavi, selecting and vinifying grapes from an area of more than 200 hectares, covering all municipalities of the denomination. A contemporary winery applying state-of-the-art technology that puts the work of eighty winegrower members together, grants privileged access to a territory boasting outstanding enological and historical traditions, as well as an exceptional landscape.

Appearance:
Great looking label! Distinct, with a swath of earth tone coloring over an abstract line drawing of the towering castle in their town. Simple, easy to identify, quite inviting actually. The wine has a gray/green robe.

Nose:
Fresh white pear, ripe kiwi and honeydew melon. Also noted lychee nuts, sesame seeds, minerals and a bit of chalk.

Texture:
Medium to medium light in body and weight. Feels good in the palate, especially when you get a surprising touch of creaminess in the middle, a rarity with typically acidic and lean Gavi's.

Flavor:
The white pear and honeydew melon from the nose strikes the palate first. Followed up by the mineral components, and then lychee nut kicks in. Taste is fabulous!!!

Serving Suggestions
So versatile, by itself, but GREAT with fish and pesto dishes.
